QUOTE: She parceled us out to the desperate and sold us to the rich and powerful for their political support. Thus, we were necessities, status symbols, and an independent people. She oversaw the joining of families, putting an end to the final remnants of the earlier system of breaking up Terran families to suit impatient Tlic. (P121)

SOURCE: "Blodchild" Octavia E. Butler

QUOTE: Only she and her political faction stood between us and the hordes who did not understand why there was a Preserve --- why any Terran could be courted, paid, drafted, in some way made available to them.

SOURCE: Octavia E. Butler, "Bloodchild", Marsi pg. 121

QUOTE: Don't worry, I said. I won't shame you. You don't have to stay and watch.

SOURCE: Octavia E. Butler. "Bloodchild" P126

QUOTE: "Actually they prefer women. You should be around them when they talk among themselves. They say women have more body fat to protect the grubs. But they usually take men to leave the women free to bear their own young."

QUOTE: "...The Tlic wouldn't open the man because she had nothing to feed the grubs. The man couldn't go any further and there were no houses around. He was in so much pain, he told her to kill him. He begged her to kill him. Finally, she did. She cut his throat. One swipe of one claw. I saw the grubs eat their way out, then burrow in again, still eating."

SOURCE: Octavia Butler, "Bloodchild," P129

QUOTE: "It's not supposed to happen that way."

"Sure it is. You weren't supposed to see it, that's all. And his Tlic was supposed to do it. She could sting him unconscious and the operation wouldn't have been as painful. But she'd still open him, pick out the grubs, and if she missed even one, it would poison him and eat him from the inside out."

SOURCE: Octavia Butler. "Bloodchild", pg. 130

QUOTE: I shook my head. "Don't do it to her, Gatoi." I was not Qui. It seemed I could become him, though, with no effort at all. I could make Zuan Hoa my shield. Would it be easier to know that red worms were growing in her flesh instead of mine?

QUOTE: Do you think that the civilizations of two planets can progress at the same rate and evolve in the same way, Hinkston?

SOURCE: Ray Bradbury. "Mars Is Heaven!" P75

QUOTE: He lay peacefully, letting his thoughts float. For the first time the stress of the day was moved aside, all of the excitement was calmed. He could think logically now. It had all been emotion. The bands playing, the sight of familiar faces, the sick pounding of your heart. But – now...
How? He thought. How was all this made? And why? For what purpose? Out of the goodness of some kind God? Was God, then, really that fine and thoughtful of his children? How and what for?

QUOTE: But, he thought, just suppose. Just suppose now, that there were Martians living on Mars and they saw our ship coming and saw us inside our ship and hated us. Suppose, now, just for the hell of it, that they wanted to destroy us, as invaders, as unwanted ones, and they wanted to do it in a very clever way, so that we would be taken off guard.

QUOTE: "What would you do, as a psychiatrist, if faced with such a problem?" Hinkston thought. "Well I think I'd re-arrange the civilization on Mars so it resembled Earth more and more each day."

QUOTE: It looked like only a few of the bears knew how to use fire, and were carrying the others along. But isn't that how it is with everything?

QUOTE: He was shivering even though it wasn't that cold. Sometimes death will do that, especially at dawn, with the police around and the grass wet, even when it comes as a friend.

SOURCE: Terry Bisson, "Bears Discover Fire", p1202

QUOTE: For the moment, at least, I am free.
 Can I be sure of that? .
 Cogito ergo sum no longer applies. We go on thinking even while we are ridden, and we live in quiet desperation, unable to halt our courses no matter how ghastly, no matter how self-destructive.

SOURCE: Robert Silverburg, "Passengers" p. 169

QUOTE: She sobs and hurls herself at me, there in the street. Her long silvery nails rake my cheeks. She pummels me. I seize her. Her knees assail me. No one pays attention; those who pass by assume we are ridden, and turn their heads. She is all fury, but I have my arms around hers like metal bands, so that she can only stamp and snort, and her body is close against mine. She is rigid, anguished.

SOURCE: Robert Silverburg, "Passengers" p. 176

QUOTE: As I grew more fluent, semagraphic designs would appear fully-formed, articulating even complex ideas all at once. My thought processes weren't moving any faster as a result, though. Instead of racing forward, my mind hung balanced on the symmetry underlying the semagrams. The semagrams seemed to be something more than language; they were almost like mandalas. I found myself in a meditative state, contemplating the way in which premises and conclusions were interchangeable. There was no direction inherent in the way propositions were connected, no "train of thought" moving along a particular route; all the components in an act of reasoning were equally powerful, all having identical precedence.

SOURCE: Ted Chiang, "The Story of your Life" p. 26

QUOTE: Humans had developed a sequential mode of awareness, while heptapods had developed a simultaneous mode of awareness. We experienced events in an order, and perceived their relationship as cause and effect. They experienced all events at once, and perceived a purpose underlying them all. A minimizing, maximizing purpose.

SOURCE: Ted Chiang, "The Story of your Life" p.31

QUOTE: Ebbets said, "Once you see it, the drive is amazingly simple. The research crews say anybody could have stumbled over the principle at almost any time in our history. The best guess is that most races did come across it, and once they did, why, all their creative energy would naturally go into refining and improving it."

QUOTE: Terror, therefore, as the obedient servant of natural or historical movement has to eliminate from the process not only freedom in any specific sense, but the very source of freedom which is given with the fact of the birth of man and resides in his capacity to make a new beginning.

SOURCE: "'Ideology and Terror: A Novel Form of Government"—Hannah Arendt

QUOTE: Loneliness, the common ground for terror, the essence of totalitarian government, and for ideology or logicity, the preparation of its executioners and victims, is closely connected with uprootedness and superfluosity which have been the curse of modern masses since the beginning of the industrial revolution and have become acute with the rise of imperialism at the end of the last century and the break-down of political institutions and social traditions in our own time. To be uprooted means to have no place in the world, recognized and guaranteed by others; to be superfluous means not to belong to the world at all.

SOURCE: "'Ideology and Terror: A Novel Form of Government"—Hannah Arendt

QUOTE: . The problem of solitude is that this two-in-one needs the others in order to become one again: one unchangeable individual whose identity can never be mistaken for that of any other. For the confirmation of my identity I depend entirely upon other people; and it is the great saving grace of companionship for solitary men that it makes them "whole" again, saves them from the dialogue of thought in which one remains always equivocal, restores the identity which makes them speak with the single voice of one unexchangeable person.

Solitude can become loneliness; this happens when all by myself I am deserted by my own self Solitary men have always been in danger of loneliness, when they can no longer find the redeeming grace of companionship to save them from duality and equivocality and doubt.

QUOTE: For the first time the magnitude of what he had undertaken came home to him. How could you communicate with the future? It was of its nature impossible. Either the future would resemble the present, in which case it would not listen to him: or it would be different from it, and his predicament would be meaningless.

QUOTE: The party was trying to kill the sex instinct, or, if it could not be killed, then to distort it and dirty it. He did not know why this was so, but it seemed natural that it should be so. And so far as the women were concerned, the Party's efforts were largely successful.

SOURCE: George Orwell- 1984 (P66)

QUOTE: The aim of the Party was not to merely prevent men and women from forming loyalties which it might not be able to control. Its real, undeclared purpose was to remove all pleasure from the sexual act. Not love so much as eroticism was the enemy, insider marriage as well as outside it.
